

Please take this comment seriously. I am deeply concerned that the FCC has become a rubber stamp for the wishes of individuals and corporations who do not use their privileges on the public airwaves in ways to promote the common good. In fact it is my understanding of the law as currently written that Sinclair is grossly overstepping the public trust by ordering its local affiliates to pre-empt scheduled programming to broadcast a viscious "hit" piece of journalism against the Democratic candidate for President. Unless Sinclair balances this with an equally opposing view point at the same prime times in the same markets, then the FCC needs to take a serious look at whether Sinclair deserves the license renewal next time around. Sincerely, Ron Eastwood
